9/29/2013
Where are we starting today?

Read this paper introduction.

With a partner:

Based on this example, what are the key writing points for introducing your research to someone through the introduction?

Homework for Today

- Write a short paragraph professional biography (no more than 6 sentences).

- Look up how people write professional biographies at the end of journal papers and on their web sites.

- Put your biography in a word file with your picture in the word file.  Name your file by your firstname_lastname_bio and place in the directory /usa/pollock/public/879tainSE on orioles.acad.ece.udel.edu.

- If you do not have an account, apply for one immediately at the EECIS website.  Make your bio publicly available for reading by chmod 755 yourfilename

Homework for Tuesday, 9/3

- Read the TA for SE background article
- Provide Tracked Changes feedback to two classmates on their bio
- Update the ref list as a shared class assignment:
  - Using the authors in the reference list, topics in the chart, and key words found in the titles (text analysis, IR, NLP, identifier names, ontology,…), create a new .bib bibtex file that includes all refs from 2012 and 2013 ACM DL and IEEE DL and others as follows:

  Group A:  Create groupa.bib
        ICSM, ICSM, SCAM, MSR,
  Group B:  Create groupb.bib
        ISSTA, WCRE, METRICS, TOSEM, others?
  Group C: Create groupc.bib
            FSE, ASE, ICPC, Naturalise Workshop,
  Group D: Create groupd.bib
        CSMR, RE, EMSE, TSE, others?

- Put your bib files by Tuesday before class into the public/879tainSE directory on orioles and add citations into the appropriate citing-groupX.tex file to create the reference list.